Welcome

Day Two
Salmon Aquaculture Dialogue

Mary Ellen Walling and Giuliana Furci, on behalf of the Steering Committee

Goal of the Aquaculture Dialogues

Create measurable standards for environmentally and socially responsible aquaculture

Suggested Ground Rules
(what we can ask of each other)

- Limit cell phones and email to break times

- Encourage sharing of views, opinions, ideas and options

- Listen respectfully: Seek to understand the concerns of others and please don't interrupt

- Share the floor: Please make your comments brief

- Express your own views rather than speaking for others

- Be tough on the problem, not each other: Please no personal attacks

Key Themes from Day One

- Need for definitions
- ISEAL and ISO
- Feed
- Farm standards and cumulative effects – how to balance?
- Address freshwater in a clear manner
- Scope
- Fishery sustainability is a common concern

Agenda, continued

November 18, 2009

9:00	Welcome and review of Day One
9:30	Small group discussion of draft indicators by thematic area (part 1)
10:45	Coffee break
11:00	Small group discussion of draft indicators (Session 2)
12:30	Lunch
13:30	Gallery walk and plenary discussion
15:30	Coffee break
16:00	Reports back and plenary discussion continued
16:30	Moving forward
17:30	Close of meeting

Break-out groups for Day Two

- Concrete suggestions for indicators
- The framework is that indicators should be both
  - A proxy for measuring environmental and/or social impact,
  - Feasible / implementable.

- Thematic groups
  - P1/6/7: Social & labour and legal issues
  - P2: Habitat/biodiversity/ecosystem function
  - P3: Health and genetics of wild populations
  - P4: Resource use source
  - P5: Managing disease/parasites & environment

Gallery Walk

Purpose

Review detailed suggestions developed this morning in small groups

How it works

- Read the notes hanging on the wall. They are grouped by Principle.

- Write down one idea per Principle that you think is a particularly useful suggestion.

- Take up to 30 minutes to walk around the room

- We will debrief this in the full group